

I understand that certain banks, credit card companies, and telephone long distance companies are petitioning the FCC to reduce the effectiveness of Indiana's Telephone Privacy Law under the "established business relationship" clause. I don't want any of them calling me at all, even if I may be their customer. If they need to reach me, they can send it in the mail in writing. I do not want my privacy compromised by any unsolicited phone calls. Thank you.
Sincerely, Brad Johns
